

---

PSYCHOLOGY PROFESSOR RESUME

---

Summary:

---

A credible and respectable Professor with proven expertise in conveying knowledge to learning individuals; responsible for delivering an accurate and up-to-date lecture of the subject concentration; responsible for maintaining high student morale and motivating students at all times; excellent interpersonal skills; uncommon communication skills both in oral and in writing

---

Professional Experience:

---

Psychology Professor January 2007 – present
University of Albany, Albany, NY

---

Responsibilities:

---

Pursued researched independently and collaboratively.
Seek researched funding, and participated in research seminars and other research related activities in the school.
Contributed teaching across the range of the School's programs (undergraduate and postgraduate).
Taught certain postgraduate programs takes place out normal University term terms and during some evenings.
Supervised PhD students in related research areas.
Undertook administrative tasks as requested by the Subject Group Head or Dean of School.
Lecturer- Psychology May 2004– January 2007
Fort Lewis College, Colorado

---

Responsibilities:

---

- Pursued researched independently and collaboratively.
- Seek researched funding, and participated in research seminars and other research related activities in the school.
- Contributed teaching across the range of the School's programs (undergraduate and postgraduate).
- Taught certain postgraduate programs takes place out normal University term terms and during some evenings.
- Supervised PhD students in related research areas.
- Undertook administrative tasks as requested by the Subject Group Head or Dean of School.

Lecturer- Psychology May 2004– January 2007
Fort Lewis College, Colorado

---

Responsibilities:

---

- Pursued researched independently and collaboratively.
- Seek researched funding, and participated in research seminars and other research related activities in the school.
- Contributed teaching across the range of the School's programs (undergraduate and postgraduate).
- Taught certain postgraduate programs takes place out normal University term terms and during some evenings.
- Supervised PhD students in related research areas.
- Undertook administrative tasks as requested by the Subject Group Head or Dean of School.

Lecturer- Psychology May 2004– January 2007
Fort Lewis College, Colorado

---

Education:

---

Ph. D. in Psychology, Stanford University, 1999
Bachelor of Science in Psychology, Stanford University, 1994

---

Skills:

---

- Proficiency in both oral and written communication skills
  - Proficiency in computer applications related to work
  - Knowledgeable in applicable laws, codes and regulations
  - Good time management and organizational skills
-

Summary:

---

- Award of Excellence in Teaching, University of Colorado Systems, 2008
- Award of Excellence, Fort Lewis College, 2003

Build your Resume Now